the nursing and not between nursings.

The mother may want to start the weaning process and if she does she car substitute a bottle feeding for a breast feeding. As soon as the breasts fail to receive regular stimulation they fail to secrete as much milk, and so weaning begins.

The last feeding is usually the most unsatisfactory one, so this should invariably be complemented by a bottle feeding, if the cereal does not do the trick.

Fruit juices, cod liver oil and vege-table soups are in order in the child's diet at this time, in addition to the cereal. But in speaking of this seven-months-old baby it has been taken for granted that he has had no other foods than breast milk.

Unusual Occurrence at Sechelt Reported; Indicate Disturbance of Earth's Crust

Vancouver. Sept. 1.—There is no data upon which a scientific investigation of the presumed earth tremors of last Monday in the Vancouver region can be based, according to Dean R. W. Brock of the University of British Columbia. The mere verbal testimony of a great many people as to what the shock felt like was of no scientific value, he said.

Local disturbances which appeared quite violent to those who experienced them were not uncommon, he said, but if they were due to earthquake they would be recorded on the seismographs. A phenomenon is reported from Sechelt at about the same hour as Vancouver people felt the shock Monday, which in Dean Brock's opinion can not be related in view of the failure of the seismographs to record anything. People out in small boats in caim water say that at about 5 p.m. large waves suddenly developed, making the management of their craft difficult. The curtious feature of this was that there was no wind, nor was there any large boat in the vicinity whose wash it might have been.

If these two facts were related they would certainly indicate a settlement in the earth's crust, which must have been recorded on the seismograph's, said Dean Brock.

Schools of Chicago

Are Under Attack

Chicago, Sept. 1.—United States histories used in Chicago public schools were indicted as anti-American, properties and "grossly distorted" in an exhaustive report filed with Mayor Thompson yesterday.

John G. Gorman, former congressman, who was commissioned by the mayor to investigate the books, said he found they "omit facts, and distort and minimize many of the real characters, events and ideals hitherto held sacred in American history."

The report came fast on the heels of the suspension, under charge of insubordination of William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, whom Mayor Thompson had assailed as "stoolpigeon of King George" and the "instigator of alleged anti-American teaching in the

FINE ADVERTISING—WITHOUT COST

IF THE VICTORIA AND ISLAND PUBlicity Bureau had a quarter of a million dollars to spend on advertising every year it might consider using The Saturday Evening Post as one of its mediums for elling the six or seven millions who read it what this community has to offer to the traveling public. But only a small fraction of that sum is at its disposal anrually, so it is compelled to use publications with cheaper rates and smaller circulations.

As we are unable to go to The Post, however, The Post has come to us. In this week's issue there is an article on the late John Drew-who was here with his all-star company earlier in the year in "Trelawney of the Wells"—by Peggy Wood, also a member of the cast. It is entitled "A Splendid Gypsy" and here is the invaluable advertising reference to Victoria which will be read by millions; and it will cost this city nothing.

But our landing and first sight of Victoria itself I shall never forget—the sunshine pouring down on the fresh, green, gorgeous flowers—never have I seen such flowers—the ivy-covered hotel with its charming gardens of May trees, as they call the huwthorne tree, and holly; so quaint, so British, that Frieda Inescort broke down and cried with homesickness!

that Frieda Inescort broke down and crew whith bomesickness!

After arranging for the company party, several of us got cars and went out to Butchart's Gardens, as we were warned on the call board not to misa them. Feter Heggie and Otto Krüger found their golf course as usual, and we all scattered, only to assemble that night in the lobby, each gasping. "If you'd only been with us, to see what we saw?" For the glories of gardens the like of which we'd none of us seen in America or Europe: the beauties of a colf course like Mid-Ocean in Bermada, only with rich, springs turf and masses of flowers along the fairways and bunkers; the sea, and across the blue water the white-capped Olympics—were beyond description, and we could only explain them in gasps.

By the time we had run out of adjectives our private room and dinner were ready, and we corralled the rest of the gypsies.

Victoria sometimes turns out well for the enterainments which the manager of the Royal Victoria Theatre brings to this city. "Trelawney of the Wells" was here for one night, played by a cast the like of which never had been here before and never may come again, but what the theatre or the company made out of it would not be a fraction of the value this community will obtain from the advertisement which Miss Wood's written impression of Victoria repre-

THAT PREFERENCE

ONE OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE EM pire Industries Association has written to The London Morning Post urging Great Britain to strain every nerve to regain her position in the Canadian markets. He complains that such preference as Britain has given to this country does not benefit Canada very materially in a financial way, and he thinks the steady gain which the United States has made in our market could be counteracted somewhat if Britain gave us a much more liberal beneficial treatment than she does at present. The enormous expansion which he predicts will take place in this Dominion during the the next fifty years is one reason for his warning to the British people.

There is more than one way of looking at this eresting question. Canada never will ask Great Britain to give her any special fiscal treatment—at leart, not as long as a Liberal Government is in office at Ottawa. She would be glad to accept any voluntary conces to extend to her. But that is all. The preference on British goods entering Canada was given without conditions of any kind. It has been increased without conditions. It has been good business for us. We sell Britain about three times as much as we buy from her. But there is apt to be a conflict of economics and sentiment when this question is examined. Advocates of the preference for Canadian goods entering Britain usually are of the same political stripe as the Canadian advocates of a removal of the British preference until Britain gives the Dominion similar reciprocal privileges. Both are protectionists. But what value would the consumer attach to Imperial unity if the Dominions were to adopt policies that would increase the cost of running his larder in order to stimulate trade between them. This is where sentiment would be in conflict with economics. Economics stand firmer alone.

SIXTY YEARS OF MUSIC

DERHAPS CANADA'S ADVANCEMENT in music has not been comparable to her more dramatic advancement in things material; this is both natural and pardonable. In a new country the first claim on a man's labor is the necessity to satisfy his bodily needs and provide himself with the comforts essential to decent living.

The absence of any record of important mus doings during Canada's infancy does not imply that Canadians are not essentially and nationally musical. Art, whether as exemplified by the dancer, the painter, the poet, or the musician, is not the exclusive birthright of certain divinely-favored nations or races. The gift of artistic expression has been active in man even long before he adorned the walls of his cave with drawings of the hairy. Primitive man turned his nat-ural home into an art gallery and all through the history of civilization man has naturally and passionately sought to satisfy his craving to embody in visible and audible forms his love for things and thoughts which

Busy with the endless endeavor to satisfy the Busy with the encless endeavor to satisfy the claimant needs of existence and the sacrificial service incidental to Empire development, Canada has had little time or opportunity to make any serious contribution to the growth and development of musical history. But during this time the burdens of the pioneers were lightened as they plied their task to the accompaniment of song and heightened the pleasure of their hours of rest as they danced the steps taught them by their fathers. The habitant of Quebec sang the same chansons as his forefathers sang when Can-ada was under the French regime. Drummond's pic-ture of the French-Canadian boatmen and raftsmen

"Singing some ol chanson 'Bout girl on de reever-too bad dey mus' leave her, but comin' back soon wit' beaucoup du argent." is but a picture of the provincial life of Quebec as it existed long years ago. In other parts of the country the Englishman was simultaneously singing his traditional folk song, or the passing favorite of music hails brought out to him by the latest emigrant from his island home, while the Scotsman was singing his "Annie Laurie" and the Irishman his "Minstrel Boy." Perhaps a still greater inspiration than all these would be that which came to them when on the Sabbath they sang the majestic hymns of their church to the praise of the common God.

With the coming of the years the vivifying power of music has assumed proportions in Canada which compel-attention and admiration. Canada has given to the world one of the greatest singers of all time and some of her sons and daughters hold an honored place among the foremost of living singers. At least two violinists have achieved world-fame and one of the world's best concert-organists is a Canadian. Much might be written about Canada's important musical organizations, but it must suffice to state that the highest authorities credit this country with having the finest choral society in existence; and an eminent English musician wrote one of our male-voice choirs as being "the best in the world."

In the realm of creative music, while not having produced a composer of immortal gifts, Canada has at least contributed no mean share.

GOOD BUSINESS

PERHAPS BANK CLEARINGS DO NOT always reflect the true economic position of a community from week to week. Special financing by government or municipality sometimes is accountable for certain fluctuations. But in a general way the weekly statement from the clearing house gives a pretty good idea of local business conditions. In this regard the clearings for August of the last three years are indicative of steady progress in Victoria. Here not be phenomenal; but it is the steadiness of the advance which is more encouraging and more satisfactory than big rises and big drops. It represents a s.ability of condition which may be regarded as a good augury for the future.

The steady increase in the banking business of the community keeps pace with the increase in home building, the larger amounts in taxes being paid in advance, and the gradual return to the tax roll of property previously on the hands of the city. Nor is there any reason why the improving conditions should not continue to improve. We may repeat that this city can be almost anything its people like to It should be their intention to make it grow. have the means to do it.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

BRITONS POOR HATERS From The Ottawa Citizen

The proposal has been made by an important London Weekly that it would be a graceful and gracious gesture to invite President Hindenburg to make a formal visit to the British capital. Afterwards, it says King George might visit Berlin.

This suggestion is a significant sign of the times, but it is especially characteristic of the British people. They have always been poor haters. They fight hard and tenaciously when they are at-war. But they are the first to manifest a willingness to extend a hand to a fellen and vanquished enemy. While some other nations formerly identified with the Allied cause were still discussing Germany in terms of wartime distrust and dislike, Britain was showing open friendliness towards her former arch enemy. It is that spirit of fair-play, which fosters in sport and other relationships a viewpoint that is without malice and bitterness, which makes Britons such poor haters.

If the proposal is followed, it will do a signal honor to a great man and nation. Not so long ago, the face and name of Hindenburg were things to strike terror. Not so now. Britain and the rest of the world now recognize that Hindenburg besides being a great soldier is a good citizen. When he was made president it was with certain misgivings on the part of outsiders and unfeigned glee on the part of the German monarchists. But he has proven true to his oath and to the German democracy. He is as strong in peace as in war.

Huge shipments of rallway and other material have been landed on the island, and proper actions are being hurried forward for the reception of the lumbermen. Johnston Great Figure in Great Dark Continent

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London, Sept. 1.—Sir Harry Hamilton Johnston, whose death occurred at Woodsetts, near Worksop, was born in Kensington in June, 1888. He played an important part as diplomat-explorer and big game hunter in East, West, North and Central Africa, the Camercons, the Gold Coast, and in Portuguese territory. Educated at the Stockredi Grammar School and at King's College, London, he afterwards became a student at the Royal Academy and South Keningston Art School, but will be best remembered for his consular and exploration work. A character sketch written when he was at the commencement of his fame, states that he was a little sip of a boy, "apparently fifteen years of age, with a pleasant amile and intelligent blue eyes, standing a little more than five feet in height, and with a chin tapering off to a point, and contrasting strongly with the broad jaw behind—that is Mr.
Johnston, the chief authority on the Congo, and the latest of African travelers. In reality he is etwenty-five, but he talks as if he were fifty-two.
When he started the other day en route for Zanzibar and the Kilimanjare mountain, one of the most remarkable young men of our time betook himself to the Dark Continent

CANADIAN TRADE AS VIEWED BY THE MANI-TOBA FREE PRESS

Hon, James Malcolm was able to give a favorable account of trade conditions and of the financial position of the Dominion in his recent speech at Oshawa. As proof of his statement that the economic barometer pointed to a continuance of the upward movement of business in Canada, he stated that the demand and notice deposits in the banks were 895,000,000 greater on June 30 than at the same date last year; that the railways have loaded 100,000 more cars in the first seven months of 1927 than in the same period of 1926; that there was considerably more employment than at any time since 1920; and that the increase of business in Canada was clearly indicated by the fact that, in spite of lower commodity prices this year than last, bank debits throughout the country totalled $15,000,000,000 during the first six months of this year, as against $15,000,000,000 for the same months last year.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce also referred to the continued buoyancy of our external trade. Since his address was given, an Ottawa report has stated that there was a $20,000,000 increase in exports and imports during the first four months of the fiscal year. Mr. Malcolm said that, while exports were not increasing as fast as imports, the increase in imports during the first four months of the fiscal year. Mr. Malcolm said that, while exports were not increasing as fast as imports, the increase in imports during the first four months of the fiscal year. Mr. Malcolm said that, while exports on the increase in purchasing power, but in all probability the inflow of a considerable amount of capital for investment in Canadian basic industries"; and while imports have been growing, the manufactured and partly manufactured goods that are being hrought into the country are less than the exports of the same, the latter being $700,000,000 for the last year for which the figures are available. Referring to specific exports, he pointed out that Canada shipped out considerably more newsprint than all the other countries of the world combined, and that she is a close second to the United States in the exporting of flour. In the last six months Canada sent to other countries no less than 10,148,000 exported by the United States.

Favorable business conditions help the national revenues, and du turs or to relax the effort to conduct the regular Government services as economically as possible. This demands eternal vigilance and firm resolution on the part of the Government.

One of the first duties is to effect a steady reduction in the national debt. Good progress has been made in this in the last few years and the purpose should not be relaxed. Then there are some new objects of expenditure, such as the development of an adequate system of industrial and scientific research, which are entirely justifiable. The comparative inaction in regard to research, on the ground that the Dominion Government could not afford the money in recent years, and a striking example of false economy. It has been amply demonstrated in other countries that research work increases production—sometimes enormously, and helps mations in meeting competition in foreign markets.

Mr. Melcom fortunately befieves in -sometimes enormously, and helps nations in meeting competition in foreign markets.

Mr. Malcoim fortunately befleves in the value of research and he stated at Oshawa that the intention of the Government, announced in Parliament last session, of preparing a comprehensive plan for aiding industrial and scientific research was being carried out. The National Research Council was working on it. "There will be submitted to the conference of provincial premiers, which is to take place in Ottawa in November," said the Minister, "a plan for the assistance of every province in the Dominion and every industry in the Dominion. The especial needs and requirements of each province will be considered so that the greatest possible over-lapping by the provincial and federal endeavor."

Since research is capable of greatly stimulating production and trade and of thus making an important contribution to the prosperity of the country, there can be no warranted criticism of a fairly liberal appropriation for a policy such as Mr. Malcolin had indicated. Some of the research work already carried on in Canada hasbrought a return enomeously greater than the money spent upon it, and the experience of other countries has left experience of other countries has left absolutely no question as to its value.

The annual guide book issued by the British Columbia Fish and Game Protective Association is now obtainable. The guide features game regulations for British Columbia and also gives valuable data for the hunter and fishertrial conditions of the Old Country since his last visit three years ago, was noted by the Dean of Columbia, who returned to Victoria yesterday after-noon after a three months' stay in Great Britain. valuable data for the hunter and naner-man. The game licenses and prices are also given. Contained in the book is a short article on the hunting and fish-ing on Vancouver Island written by Roger Monteith, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association. Another article fea-turing grilse fishing around Victoria, accompanied by two fine cuts, also ap-pears. This was written by Frank Oreat Britain.

EMIGRATION SITUATION This improvement in industrial conditions in England found its reflection in the hesitancy of the right kind of men to later its shores for the Dominions, where, in their eyes, the future was doubtful. The dole and the prospect of an old-age pension in England made it a safe place in the eyes of many who might otherwise betempted by the emigrating schemes of both the British and Canadian governments.

In his travels up and down the country, the Dean found many opportunities for encouraging the emigration to British Columbia of men with a reasonable competence to supplement the income which could be made at farming on Vancouver Island. He also commended the scheme under which young men are being trained for emigration purposes in schools organized by the British authorities.

But he confesses with regret that his efforts to arouse financial support for the new cathedral were not very successful, owing to many prior claims by this part of the world. Archbishop de Pencier only a few months earlier in the year made an appeal on behalf of the endownient need of the Bishopric of Caledonia.

Furthermore, England was heavily burdened with taxation, and liquid capital was disinclined to move.

The financial interest in the new cathedral, so far as England is concerned, has been left for the time being in the hands of the British Columbia and Yukon Church Aid Society there, and they are already making an appeal to their own supporters for immediate subscriptions. The Dean prevailed upon the society to form a special committee in London to watch over the interests of the new cathedral and it is expected that in about eighteen months' or two years' time collections will be given to the new cathedral fund by all the cathedrals and big parish churches in England.

The Dean will occupy the pulpit at Chuich Cathedri I on Sunday morning when he will preach on "The Present State of the Church in England."

NATIVES PREFERENCE

Probably the natives themselves prefer the British control than the rule of these Maharajahs, Dr. Miller declared. In the feudal system, as its really is, there is more opportunity for graft while with the British Government the natives know they can secure justice. Dr. Miller mentioned the case of a rich Indian who having several law suits on his hands was asked whether he wished them tried before British or Indian judge.

"If I want justice, I would like a British judge; if I want favor I would like an Indian judge," was the answer.

"There is, therefore, a real reason to think that the Indian situation will work out to best advantage, and will not prove too great's trouble for the Empire," Dr. Miller concluded.

George Young Out of Condition EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE MADE HIM Vierkoetter Wins $30,000 Prize

Toronto Marathon and Wins By Over Four Hours

Michel of France, Second Nomen Stick Gamely to Task But Fail

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Before the largest crowd that has ever witnessed an squatic event in the Dominion of Canada, Ernest Vierkoetter, giant German, last night, awam to victory in the twenty-one-mile marathon held here in connection with Canadian National Exhibition and annexed the major prize of $30,000. Georges Michel of Paris, France, holder of the English Channel swimming record, was second and will receive $7,500, and William Erickson of New York, the last man to finish the race, will have $2,500 as his share. The will have $2,500 as his share. The s men were the only ones finishing course—and there were nearly 500 cers. Vierkoetter's time for the sty-one mues was 11 hours, 42 minclers. George Young, Toronto boy who won the Catalina event last January, led the field for the first five miles yesterday, but dropped out shortly after Vierkoetter, who had been holding second place, passed him. Young was unconscious when taken from the water, but recovered after treatment. DRAMATIC MOMENTS

It was a day of dramatic moments. Starting at 8:30 Eastern Daylight Time, the swimmers were away in a rush. Not twenty-five feet had been navigated before they began to drop out and before the mile buoy was reached the breakwater was dotted with swimmers who had retired from the race.

Young led at the first and second buoys, one and four miles away, respectively, but relinquished the lead to Vierkoetter, who was never headed. Lottle Moore Schoemnel, New York, was taken from the water as she was heading into the home stretch; Ethel Hertle who led all women entrants by a comfortable margin, was forced to withdraw just as she was starting the last lap; Edith Hedin, Toronto, another newcomer to the long distance ranks, was also in the water until midnight, but at 12.06 this morning the only woman remaining in the race, Martha Stager of Portland, Ore, was taken from water after the German had completed the course and just as Georges Michel was on his way to receive the second award.

Mrs. Schoemmel was in third position, with Erickson some miles back. The latter finished at 3.31 this morning after Mrs. Schoemmel had been taken out with little more than a mile to go at 12.06 a.m.

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION

Vicerkoetter received a wonderful reception. Thousands along the shore of the lake cheered him on his way up to the finishing line. Amid the din of sirems and the cheering of the mass of humanity, Vierkoetter crossed the line at $1.5 pm. and stood up in the shallow water. Finshights lighted the sky as the German was led before the battery of cameras and then he was hurried away. He said nothing, but simply waved his arms and grinned delightedly.

The crowd dwindled somewhat, but as Michel swept up to the finishing line there was a wild outburst of cheering. Michel was in fairly good condition when he came in. He had struck an offshore current four miles from the finish and was driven back some distance. His time was 16 hours 12 minutes, over four hours after the winner.

Along the bank fires had been lighted

Little Bill Johnston in many ways is the most interesting of the world's tennis stars. Over a period of fourteen years he has been outstanding. During that time many a star has flashed over the tennis horizon, only to burn himself out after a few years of stiff competition. Yet Johnston remains one of the ranking players, and a mighty popular one.

To look at Johnston, one woould never pick him as one of the greatest players in the history of the sport. He is slight of physique and looks anything but the athlete. However, he has the heart and the skill plus a keen mind. Were Johnston stronger physically, he would have been almost unbeatable.

"It required a catastrophe to make a tennis player out of me," he replied. "My tennis dates back to the San Francisco fire of twenty years ago. You folks in the East no doubt recall that happening as the earthquake, but to us native sons it was the fire, not the quake, that caused all the trouble.

"The schools were closed and a vacation of six months loomed ahead. To kill the time I begat playing tennis in the parks. By the time the schools reopened in the Fall I could beat any one my age in San Francisco.

"That was twenty years ago. In 1915 I realized my ambition of winning the national champlonship. Since then Bill Tilden has kept me from winning a lot more titles."

By many experts Johnston is considered the best all-round tennis player I the game. He is a great shotmaker, a wonder at volleying, brilliant with h ground strokes. There is no better forehand anywhere and he has the ide disposition, for nothing ruffles him.

Now that I have gotten off my chest a few remarks concerning the recent British championship, I am going to try to pick up where I lett oft a few weeks ago. At that time I was on the point of making some observations upon the proper manner of playing a pitch shot, and after my experience with the first four holes at St. Andrews I have realized that I must describe other methods than my own as the carry in the last eastern invasion by Chicago they had a margin of six rull games, but to-day, at one time early in the last eastern invasion by Chicago they had a margin of six rull games, but to-day their supremery was in dispute. While the Cubs were idle yesterday, the Pirates were winning a double-header from the Phillies, 3-2, in thirteen innings in the first game, and making a four-run rally to win 7-2 in the second. Jack Scott was easy for the Pirates, who got fifteen safeties from him.

acting he wanted to do and cast him in a picture as such a character. The genius was Charite Chaplin, and the picture was his "Woman of Paris."

When Gene Stratton-Porter wrote "The Magic Garden," she unknowingly followed the old precept of keeping the best for the last. Just before her death the popular authoress completed the story which later proved to be her greatest, it was also by a tragic coincidence to be her final work. J. Leo Macehan, Mrs. Porter son-in-law has taken this remarkable book and transferred it to the screen, where, as an P.B.O. production, it may be seen at the Playhouse Theatre next week when it begins a six-day run. The picture reflects the spirit of its author; it is replete with the richness of life, and reveals the depths of human nature as this great woman knew it to be. It deals with hearts and souls, and the even's that happen to test man and prove him to be worthy. The cast was selected by Mr. Meehan with the greatest care in order that one would give a faithful delineation of the character that he or she was to make live on the screen. Many favorites are to be found in this gathering, among them: Margaret Mooris, Raymond Keane, Phillippe de Lacey, Joyce Coad, William V. Germany is determined to make the forthcoming meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva something more than a perfunctory session. There seems little doubt now that the relations between Germany and France and consequently the other signatories of the Locarno pact also, will be the outstanding topic for discussion and Germany does not conceal her chapt in the array of occupation on the Rhine land. Lengthy discussions are reported to ask for a considerable reduction in the army of occupation on the Rhine land. Lengthy discussions are reported to have taken place during the last few days between France Briand and the Germany argues that the reduced to not more than 5,000, but France, while accepting the principle of reduction, is unwilling to tie the hands of her Ministler to any particular figure. France argues that no direct promises of reduction was made in the conference of ambassadors in 1928. She says it is not a question of a uniliateral agreements and Germany must give some guarantees that these concessions will not be made the ground for further encoachments. France views with some suspicion the reorganization of the Reichswehr and the large increases in the naval and military votes from the Rhine and the large contingent by the distribution of the Allies. that she knew no more than they.

A minute later Mr. Frasier called her, with a sharp clatter of the busser that was fastened beside her deak.

"I'm not satisfied with your proceedings," he said at once, when she stood before him. He did not ast her to sit down. She waited in silence. "The man who just went out is my friend. He is a faithful and efficient employee. He has worked for me for twenty years." She could barely see his eyes beneath the lowered, shaggy brows. "I know he is not popular in the office. I know he's a failure, so far as his own life is concerned. But he does what I've given him to do, and does it loyally, to the best of his very good ability." He tapped his pendi on the desk. "Because of what you've done, he has offered me his resignation."

"I didn't mean he should do that."

Molly shook her head. "I'm u haven't any confidence in said so, Saturday night I'll go,

"But—"
His mouth was drawing downward as the corners. "Miss Anderson, please, don't go to see my wife! I beg of you—don't do it?" He flung up his arms. "I can't let her know that we were here together. She would—she would—"he struggled for words that would express what his wife would do.
"Anything I can do to help you—anything." he resumed, desperately, "I'll do. I promise that I will. "I'll speak strongly in your favor to Mr. Fratier I'll—"
A heavy voice broken in upon the

"Neither does a brat who tinker with its father's automobile and starts the engine and sends the car plunging down hill mean to cause a wreck—but does so, nevertheless," he said icity. "You've done more damage in this office to-day, my good young woman, than I can correct in three months."
"But he kent me late Saturday and office to-day, my good young woman, than I can correct in three months."

"But he kept me late Saturday, and it wasn't right the way he jumped onto me," she cried. "It wasn't fair!"

"The man has his weaknesses. So have you, I might add," said he. "I managed to hurt his feelings by hiring you without consulting him. He's small in some ways—I know that. He likes what authority he has, and wants more. Poor chap! He'll never get it in this life. His wife has bullyragged him until he ian't fit to exercise authority, any more than I've given him. He's timld—afraid to do things at the right time. He takes it out in blustering over little matters that don't amount to a hoot.

"Now then." He got up and stood facing her. "You came to him, and publicly, in the face of the whole office, humilisted him—shamed him. You did it to get even for the scold-ling he gave you. Didn't you?"

"Yes, she said, thrusting out her lower lip, stubbornly."

CHAPTER XV

"What's it all about?" asked the ead of the firm, when the three were ated in his office, and the door was

"Yes?" Mr. Frazier turned to Molly.
Suppose you let me in on the secret.

"Suppose you let me in on the secret. If I'm curious."

Molly spoke promptly. "He kept me here Saturday afternoon to work, and we got through after dark. Before he left he told me I was acting as if I was a favorite here, and that he wouldn't stand for it." The president shot a keen glance at his office manager. Sticko was looking fixedly into the corner. "He said I didn't use the pencil racks and the things that the company sells, and I'd have to do it hereafter. He said if I didn't want to do it, I ought to resign."

She stopped, as if the recital were complete. "Yes," she said, thrusting out her lower lip, stubbornly.
"You had no intention of going to see his wife." He stated this as a fact, not as a question.
"No," she said.
"You wanted to make him crawl," he went on.
"Yes," she said.
"So, to that extent, you tried to take charge of this office; to disorganize it for the sake of your injured vanity. Isn't that true?"
Molly's obstinate lower lip drew in a listie. "I didn't think of it that way."
"Confound it, you ought to have thought! Don't you suppose I know way."

"Confound it, you ought to have thought! Don't you suppose I know what I'm doing when I keep him in that job? Don't you suppose he does work that is valuable—that is needed by the firm? You'd have liked to have forced him to quit, wouldn't you?"
She nodded slowly.

Sticko's hunted eyes turned to her phealingly, "To-day," said Molly. "I asked him if "To-day," said Molly. "I asked him if is wife had come back."
"On!" Mr. Frazier looked as men do fhen sudden light is turned upon a systery. "Please go Gi."
The office manager intervened. "She aid she'd tell my wife that we'd been ser together alone," he accused.
"You don't say it the right way," folly objected. "What I said was, I wanted to explain to your wife that here wann't anything wrong in our leng here together." She searched fir. Frazier's face for a hint of what he was thinking.

The president tilted back in his chair, and frowned. "Molly, go to rour own desk for a few minutes. Then I'll want you to come back."

She left them, Sticko with his head bowed dejectedly, Mr. Frazier with a stern fixedness in the line of his jaw.
When she re-entered the main office he was received with shouts of glee. Ignoring Sticko's rules the girls, the two bookkeepers, the one of two salesmen who were in the office clustered around her, laughing and shouting.
"You did it!" cried Mary Holmquist. "You've cooked that old prune!" Molly bore her honors modestly. "But I think Mr. Frazier's mad." said she. "He made us tell him all about it. Sticko was just crawling back there in his corner. He offered to do anything to help me if I wouldn't go see his wife.

"Look out for the boss," advised the cashler. "He won't stand for much monkey business."

"To not afraid of him, "he declared. "And Sticko kept me here Saturday until after 6 o'clock, and he bawled me out when I was through."

"About using labor-savers" sked Mary. "He's nuts on company products."

"To mot afraid of him, she declared. "And Sticko kept me here Saturday until after 6 o'clock, and he bawled me out when I was through."

"Yee—and he said I thought I was a fine time."

Lagistship when the message
The route of the big liner was considerably south of the course of the St.
Raphael, which was though might be near the northern tip of the continent this morning if al! went well. While it was pointed out in shipping circles that no especial importance was attached to the fact that the Mauretania had not sighted the plane, it was regarded as significant the operator had made no mantion of hearing other wireless reports from vessels near the air route.

The Associated Press had remained the strike the North American continent at Belle Isle and follow the St. Lawrence to Montreal and the Ottawa River to Ottawa.

air route.

The Associated Press had requested a number of ships at sea to report by wireless if the plane was sighted, but up to this afternoon no word had been received.

MESSAGE FROM SHIP

MESSAGE FROM SHIP
London, Sept. 1.—Inquiry at the Air Ministry at 11 a.m. London time (3 a.m.
Victoria time) brought the statement that nothing had been heard of the progress of the monoplane St. Raphael since about midnight, when an unofficial message believed to be from some steamer reported the plane going strong. The position was not stated.
Neither Lloyds nor the Marconi Wireless Company had knowledge of the picking up by any ship of such a message as told by the Air Ministry.

BRITISH AWAIT NEWS

London, Sept. 1.—Lack of news regarding Ex-princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and her serial companions, Capt.

Leslie Hamilton and Lieut.-Col. F. F.
Minchin, who set off so gallantly from the Upavon aerodrome yesterday morning for Ottawa, was causing a certain degree of uneasiness this afternoon among eager followers of the outcome of the transatisnite attempt.

It was generally thought that, with all going well, the normal cruising speed of the St. Raphael, inhety-five miles an hour, should have brought it over Newfoundiand at least by moon to-day. Reports of head winds along the Atlantic route, however, caused some allowance to be made and there was no real anxiety when, at mid-afternoon (London time), the plane still had not been sighted.

DAYLIGHT ARRIVAL.

All, hours, flying.

The Pekin Gazefte has been publicated hill Bay delay at 2.0 a.m. 10.10 a.m. 10.00 a DAYLIGHT ARRIVAL

The authorities of the Upavon aerodrome were, like the rest of the world, without news of the filters, but no great concern seemed to be felt there as yet regarding their safety.
Capt. Hamilton told officials just before starting that he expected to be able to reach Ottawa before dark and the attitude of those at the aerodrome was that over-anxiety about the plane would be unjustified unless it was still unreported when darkness set in.

The Alaska salling of the C.P.R. from Vancouver this week-end, which should have been taken by the Frincess Charlotte, will be taken by the Princess Alice, and will leave Vancouver Sunday night at 9 p.m., just twenty-four hours behind schedule. FLARES BURNED

It was believed the plane might reach Newbundland at dawn, between 3.30 and 4.30. Eastern daylight time. The probability of the plane heading inland without being sighted was realized.

Lighthouse keepers kept up a watch, while Government wireless stations retained men at their post continuously, so as to pick up any radioed word of the sighting of the craft. At midnight the Harbor Grace air field, in compliance with orders from Colonial Secretary Bennett, began to light flares at regular intervals.

But Falling Off Shown For July Compared With July Last Year

Coal production by the collieries of the province showed a slight falling off in July as compared with the same month in 1926, according to figures just compiled by the Department of Mines and Issued by Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines. The output in July this year was 173,548 tons compared with 196,279 in the corresponding month in 1926. The warm weather with consequent lessened demand was responsible for the decrease.

But the aggregate output for the seven months of the year ended July 31 last showed a substantial increase over that for the same period in 1926. This year production totalled 1,414,408 long tons as against 1,253,977 long tons last year, an increase of 160,429 long tons, or twelve per cent.

ISLAND COLLIERIES

Vancouver Island collieries produced in the seven months 763,780 tons as against 679,879 tons last year, an increase of 83,901 tons, or thirteen percent. The Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, produced 293,160 tons as against 273,841 tons in the seven months last year, and the Western Pruel Corporation Limited had an output of 324,838 tons as against 262,073 tons in 1926. Other Island collieries accounted for 145,782 tons this year. The Nicola-Princeton district's output was 108,786 tons as against 88,119 tons last year, and the Crow's Nest Pass collieries in the East Kootensy district had a production for the seven months of 541,078 tons as against 485,229 tons in 1926.

I-ON-A-CO—the Magnetic Health Belt-Has Brought Relief to Many in Victoria

Testimonials from people who live at a distance are never so convincing as those from people who live in your own community. That is why we are always glad to refer you to Victoria residents who have tried the I-ON-A-CO Belt and found that it has helped them tremendously. Perhaps you know some of these people.

My father-in-law suffered from neuritis for two or three years. From the very first day he used the belt he has had no recur-rence of his trouble.

A. H. PEASE, Hamsterley Lakeside.

I was brought here from the East to see if the climate would save my life. . I had been sick for fourteen years and was not expected to live till Spring. Today I consider myself perfectly normal and have not had an ache or pain since I took my first treatment.

For the last three years I have suffered from rheumatism. I have now been taking treatments for three weeks and the benefit I have received is amasing. I am a painter by trade and I can now do a day's work without effort do a day's work without effort.

IF YOU'VE NEVER HAD A SISTER

Was Started by Thomas Dog-gett, the Actor, 112 Years Ago

It is now 112 years since Thomas Doggett, the actor, bequeathed a coat and a silver badge to the Thames waterman who proved his skill in contest with his fellows. The race for Doggett's Coat and Badge, which was duly rowed this week on the Thames, is still among the events of the year in the eyes of the Thames water-side population. Watermen and lightermen of the Thames are a dwindling race, but their physique would compare favorably with that of their sighteenth century predecessors. In one respect they fall short of the watermen of Dr. Johnson's day. Their fame for repartee and picturesque invective pissed in Victoria's day to the London bus' driver. To-day I am afraid that the art of public insult is in danger of being lost altogether, although the taxidriver does his best to maintain a dying tradition.

Superturist adds life and mileage

THREE things give a tire mileage.

The cord used in the carcass.

The rubber and compound used.

The engineering skill or construction which combines the two.

No matter how good the tread, no matter how skilful the building, if the cord breaks down, the tire goes.

And in Goodyear Cord Tires alone do you find SUPER-TWIST, the sensational Goodyear- developed cord which adds to the strength and life of the

For SUPERTWIST is super-elastic. It stretches and recovers like sturdy rubber ropes. SUPERTWIST cords are 61% more elastic than old-style cords-more able to withstand blows of the road without injury.

And the net result is new mileage records from Goodyear Cord Tires on all kinds of cars in all kinds of service.

All Goodyear Cord Tires are made with SUPERTWIST-high-pressure and balloon, at prices to meet your needs. Goodyear Selected Dealers have them.
